All New Sime~Gen

Three stories put an SF twist on the vampire archetype: love doesn't demand sacrifice of life; love literally prevents death.

Zelerod's Doom has been averted, and now people struggle to survive under the Unity Treaty. Jonmair, once a possession, suddenly becomes the ward of the last Sime to own her. Baird, a Sime, must prevent himself from Killing her before she learns how to save his life. Meanwhile, some Simes are determined to nullify the Treaty and return to the Kill.

Two musicians give the world hope and understanding while themselves struggling with the flaws in Unity.

The third story is set three centuries later, when students at a top school secretly indulge in the exchange of illicit stories about the Year 0, stories that evoke the long forbidden bliss of tormenting and Killing Gens.
